Girl of Ghost Mountain

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Mary Burrows, with a giant Swede girl, short, stout, and a man grown by Mexican standards, old enough to aim and fire a rifle.

"They killed Kenyon. They shot down the guards before many of them knew what had happened, firing from the cliffs. And they carried off the gold, westward to their hiding place. Juan described it to me as a canyon rising from the desert, with painted cliffs that were shaped like churches. He regarded it with superstitious awe. He thought it was sacrilege to bring stolen gold, won by murder, to such a place. He believed the rock forms were actual ruins, that they would be cursed for their action. Remember this superstition of his.

"But the others, older, more cautious, laughed at him. There was water on the floor for their horses, many caves in which to hide and, if necessary, defend themselves. They had provisions stored there. There were women, it was their fortress. They knew the secret of the communicating caves. And to this place, the City of Silence, as they named it, they brought their loot. Juan was with the rear-guard. He was a good shot, it seems. But he had a poor horse and it had been wounded by a stray bullet. So he fell behind the rest in their eagerness, as they approached their stronghold and knew they were not followed. Indeed the mesa was sparsely settled then.

"It was with infinite detail that Juan Mendoza told me this story, with detail never contradicted. An interesting story, Mr. Sheridan, but I think that, so far, I have outlined sufficiently."

He had, Sheridan had seen a vision of the past, a vision of the over-confident guardians, the jesting, wages to be paid, drinks and gambling to be had in Ploche, their carelessness as they neared the painted cliffs, the unseen marksmen, falling men, stricken horses. The rush of the bandits, the dead left for the coyotes and the buzzards. He had glimpsed the robber stronghold with its women, its lawlessness. Quong was a connoisseur of words, his style of speech, almost a monotone, but his flawless technique in the art of story telling. Sheridan saw, too, Juan Mendoza, sliding like a crab among the narrow, the pitiless rooms, worshipping Quong, his god, who gave him success, telling him his secret.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred is happy to advise all mothers about the care of their children of any age, or on any subject which does not belong in the field of the doctor.

The small booklet, "Care of the Baby," may be had by sending a self-addressed and stamped envelope and asking for it.

Nurse your baby if you want a better baby.

Feed it at regular hours—by the clock.

Keep away from medicines unless prescribed by the doctor.

Regard it fever as a danger signal and don't ignore it, saying "Baby run" or "temperature so easily."

Constipation can be helped by regular bowel habits—by the use of orange juice, prune juice, scraped apple.

Remember that sleeplessness comes from some real cause and not because the baby wants to be bad. Never, never, make a punishment, or other soothing syrup to induce sleep. This is merely binding yourself to the danger sign.

Do not take your children where there are other children, suffering from colds which may be the first stages of some dangerous disease. Colds are bad enough.

Be just as careful of one-bottle, in cleaning and holding it, as if the baby were entirely a bottle baby. Germs are just as dangerous when they lurk on one indifferently cleaned bottle as if they were a dozen.

Children who sweat copiously at night and breathe with mouth open and with snuffling noises may be the victims of adenoids.

When a baby has many bowel movements daily, is wet almost constantly and gaining prodigiously in weight he is getting too much food.

When the baby's nose is always stained from urine don't be alarmed. He may need more water to drink.

Don't expect the baby to have colic and be indifferent to it. Find out if it is really colic, or merely a cry of hunger.

WONDERING.

Since you respect the young man so much, keep him as your friend and guard him as a treasure.

And the fact that people make fun of him. Because of the difference in religion, however, if there is a great difference, consider him only as a friend and do not permit yourself to regard him as a sweetheart.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl in my teens and have been going with a boy who is 20. His religion is different from mine. He is a very nice boy and has always treated me nicely. The people of this town make fun of him. What would you advise me to do?

ANSWERED LETTERS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am planning on giving a theater party on my seventeenth birthday. Do you think a moonlight picnic would be better? Please tell me how to go about having either one. Please suggest something if you don't think either one of these would do. "DUCK."

You would have a delightful time whether you entertained at the theater or with a moonlight picnic. Since you are only 17, however, I would advise the theater party. Of course your mother ought to chaperone. Send out your invitations about two weeks ahead of time and ask for a reply. After the theater you might take your guests to have a little something to eat or invite them home for an after theater lunch.

Chicago Review.
Although special buying gave a return to wheat prices at the opening Tuesday, a setback quickly came. The purchase orders having been filled. On the decline July and Sept. both went below 100 for the first time. Influenced more by loss of interest than domestic and foreign demand was inadequate to take care of prospective hedging sales. The majority of traders returned to favor the bear side. Opening prices, which varied from unimpaired figures to 35c higher, with July $1.05 1/2, 100's, and Sept. $1.05 1/2, 100's, were followed by declines all around to well below Monday's finish.

With corn making a notable advance in value, the wheat market took a decided turn to the bear. The board of trade session. Surmises that Germany's new reparations after much lead in settlement with France counted also as a bullish factor. Wheat closed unsettled, 35c net higher, July $1.05 1/2, 100's, and Sept. $1.05 1/2, 100's.

Shorts covered freely in late dealings and considerable buying followed. Corn and oats were relatively firm, owing to continued scarcity of available supplies of corn. The market opened at a shade lower to the advance, July $1.05 1/2, 100's, and Sept. $1.05 1/2, 100's, the corn market fluctuated around 25c lower, but secured moderate general gains.

Subsequently July corn rose to the highest price record this season. Shipping demand here was good, and there was business in the market. The market closed at a shade higher, July $1.05 1/2, 100's, and Sept. $1.05 1/2, 100's, after a little hesitancy went definitely up.

Provisions reflected firmness of hog values.

WALWORTH COUNTY

Commencement
Week Begins at State Normal

Whitewater—The commencement service at the men's gymnasium Sunday evening was held under a heavy storm of rain. This service was the opening of the week's program. Following the procession, the Rev. E. B. Williams offered prayer, a quartet consisting of the Misses Jean Adams, Persons and Brucell sang the "Largo". The Rev. Allen Adams read the scriptures from the third chapter of Proverbs and the first chapter of Isaiah. The choir sang "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes."

For the fourth consecutive year Pres. E. S. Hyer has been requested to make the commencement address, and he expressed his appreciation of being the choice of the graduating classes these several years. If he were to choose a text, he said, he would turn to Proverbs 23 and read the seventh verse, "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he," and also the seventh verse of Acts 11, "And your sons and your daughters shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams." Pres. Hyer spoke of that inscription in the Tower of London which was fast on the wall by a prisoner. "To live without a dream, what is that?" He classified dreams, visions and ideals and showed that ideals may be influenced by the home, the church and the school. Illustrating the home influence, he referred to Edward Roke's autobiography and that admonition has been given to them all, to tempt doing their best to live to make the world better and more beautiful. He also quoted Lincoln's tribute to his mother. The ideals the church gives us come from Christ, and the main aim of the schools is to instill ideals.

Pres. Hyer continued, "We never would have been anything without more than visions, more than dreams. An ideal may dominate a purpose. The mere dreamer never gets anywhere. As we progress in life our ideals go on before us. We never reach them for when we reach them, they no longer are ideals."

A seven pound daughter named Phyllis Elaine, was born Saturday afternoon to Prof. and Mrs. Harry Lathrop, Geneva avenue.

Mrs. Lydia M. Averill, formerly of Whitewater, left her Riverside, Cal., home May 16 and is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Maud Liebenberg at Alma, Wis. on Monday, June 11.

Mrs. Averill will arrive in Whitewater to visit Mrs. H. R. Roby and other friends for two weeks before going to her old home in Maine.

He asked that we consider the ideals of our presidents from Washington down to Wilson and the inspiration we get from such ideals. "You will never be greater than your ideals, for your ideals grow within you," he said.

Pres. Hyer spoke of the leisure which people have under the eight hour day, and of the tendency to make a day's work of six hours duration which is a waste of time. "If we see in force, if more leisure means, more time to idle, to waste, more time to be spent in a so-called 'good time' a frivolous, unthinking time, then the shorter hours of a day's work will become a curse, a menace to our nation. If we live up to our ideals we will have the leisure to make the most of all God has given us. We will go forth as leaders in improvement in advancement and in service, with noble vision and high ideals, concluding with the words, 'God bless you, and help you to be true to all you plan to do and be.'"

Plumber Wanted by Chicago Cubs

Chicago—A ruse to discover the source of a leak in news of the inner workings of the Chicago National league baseball club caused a lot of worry to local fans.

Real "inside dope" concerning the Cubs movement to prematurely become public property with astonishing regularity lately it became known Tuesday. Exasperated at the latest leak concerning the waivers asked for three outfielders and the offer for Galvin, Los Angeles first baseman, club officials set out to expose the tipster or tipsters.

They sent a false telegram to President Truock saying that Alexander and Stutz had been traded to the Cincinnati Reds for Roush and Ponsica. The contents of the message was said to be known only by trusted officials of the team but within a few hours there was a walling and knocking of teeth among the baseball public. It wasn't known until Tuesday the message was false. Fans heaved deep sighs of relief when the announcement came.

All the sources of inside information has not been located.

By FRANK SINCLAIR

THE SAYING that they never come back has entered the fold of the auto racing world. The event at Indianapolis on Memorial day is the demonstration. Harry C. Stutz, famous racing strategist, left the race course several years ago after his team had been the most consistent winner in all racing history. On May 30, he saw his car, his first re-entry in motor racing, win the greatest event in the world, the international 500-mile sweepstakes. When Stutz withdrew from the track, he was thought to be through with the game, but in reality he resorted to the experimental chambers. Then he came out again. Milton may have been at the wheel, but the strategy was planned in the pits.

A PECULIAR situation developed in the Big Ten games at Ann Arbor on Saturday when, because the miles were misplaced and a Michigan runner knocked one over, Referee Charles Dean of Chicago, ruled the event out. It was a strange situation and when Coach Gill's protest from Illinois comes before the conference council a hot battle is bound to follow. It is hard to say whether the event should have stood or whether it should have been run over. My ruling, every school that took part was affected. Had the run been permitted to stand, only one school would have been injured. By ruling it out, all were affected alike. For once, Dean seems to be right.

HER work this season has put Mrs. Molla Mallory in the line out of the thought as the best woman tennis player of the United States. Who will take her place? From the Pacific coast, it is believed that Helen Wills, the lassie who came out of the backround and was ranked among the first three for last year's showing. Miss Wills is practicing considerably with crack male players. The result being that she is developing a masterful stroke, powerful and excellent with technique. Of all the other women star players in the country, it is now said that Miss Wills is showing the headiest work.

BRINGING UP FATHER

JANESVILLE MAN HEADS BIG AUTO CLASSIC

Harry Magnus, who will drive a Duesenberg in the 100 mile championship race at Milwaukee, next Sunday. The meet, which is being conducted by Grover Horn, former resident of Janesville, is attracting state wide attention, and it is expected that over a score of automobiles will go from here for the championship events, which will be run over the state fair track at Milwaukee.

Milwaukee—Great interest is being displayed throughout Wisconsin in the championship speed contests which will be held here next Sunday, over the mile track at the state fair park. Hundreds of speed fans plan to motor here for the event. Janesville alone promising a delegation of 100, while Green Bay, Oshkosh, Madison, Watertown, Waubesa, Manitowish and other cities within a radius of 100 miles, will be well represented.

The meet, which will be conducted by the Badger Motor Contest club, will be limited to Wisconsin drivers, and will be featured by a 100 mile derby, the winner of which will be presented with a trophy emblematic of the championship of the state. He will be required to defend the cup every year. A purse of good sized proportions will also go to the winner.

Heretofore, racing teams which have appeared on the dirt tracks of the state have been notorious for some of the hippodrome tactics pursued. The races here Sunday will be strictly bona fide battles and some of the fastest sport ever witnessed on the historic West Allis oval is anticipated. Practically every crack driver in Wisconsin has entered, the list including Stanley Kowicki, who will pilot a Duesenberg; Red Parkhurst, who will be behind the wheel of a Durant Special; Roman Czerwinski, who will drive a Pontiac; Hooks Doedike, who will pilot a Packard; and numerous others. All the cars are Wisconsin owned, and in a number of instances have been rebuilt by their owners. Inasmuch as the meet will be held more to create an interest in motor racing than as a money making proposition, the Badger Motor Contest club has set 50 cents as the admission fee. Parking space for automobiles will be furnished free.

"I believe there is a great field for the young racing driver," said Grover Horn, formerly of Janesville, president of the club, "and we hope to develop some real stars from these meets. Wisconsin already boasts some of the smartest drivers in the game, and the races here will be as thrilling as those at Indianapolis. It is the plan of the club to match our best drivers against those of other states in a series of interstate events, following this meet."

Smith Promises Big Golf Future

New York—Golfers who recall the great promise that MacDonald Smith showed in professional ranks, may find it little surprise if he proves an important factor in this year's British championship. "Mac" won the Metropolitan championship in 1914, with the low total of 278 strokes, and four years before tied with Alex Smith and Jack McDermott for the national open, but finished third to that pair in the play-off. Shortly after that he fell into rather bad ways and for several years dropped out of big tournament competition.

Something more than a year ago he married a San Francisco girl, and for almost two years now has been treading the straight and narrow path. He went abroad some two months ago, one of his main purposes being an attempt to rehabilitate himself as a first class golfer in the British Isles. Since his arrival over there he has been playing the Troon links frequently with gratifying results. In fact, on two occasions he has broken the record of 72 which has stood for several years. He first scored a round of 70 and then a few days later, cut one stroke from that figure.

Smith comes of a golfing family. He was born at Carnoustie, Scotland, and is a younger brother of Alex and Willie Smith, both former champions. He is also related to Jimmy and Stewart Maiden, both well known in professional circles in this country. He undoubtedly has the mechanical skill, and is furthermore very serious about his attempt to come back. If he is lucky enough to be around the top of his stride during the tournament, he is likely to improve a highly important factor in the approaching championship.

Surprises Were Features of Sunday League Games

Sunday's games in the southern Wisconsin league were marked by the surprise of the week when Cambridge came out of the hole and bumped off Stoughton. The Hub city American league had been doped to easily walk out with the game. As things turned out, the game went just the other way, the Wagners being defeated, 8 to 3.

It was not entirely expected either that Deerfield would fall before Edgerton. The hammering manner in which the "Deers" slugged a win over Janesville the week previous and the showing made by Janesville against the Robbers, who seemed to point to a victory for Deerfield. At that Edgerton had only a one run margin of safety, 9 to 8.

The Fort Atkinson-Janesville game was the classic of the day. People who attended said they would go a hundred miles to see another game like it. Thrills-filled every inning.

NOTES OF THE LEAGUE
Janesville made 19 hits to Fort's 10 on Sunday and yet could not bag the bacon.

Janesville team had 16 men left on bases which tells the whole story of why they did not win.

Stoughton's catcher, pulled a double play unassisted by touching out a base runner at home and then running down the base line to tag a man coming in from third.

Fire of Janesville got the only home run of the day.

Heffernan, Janesville first sacker, was the only man on Sunday to get a perfect day at bat, making four hits in four trips to the plate.

Edgerton and Deerfield played through a driving rain in the fourth inning, and in that stanza Edgerton made four runs.

Neupert, Cambridge pitcher, had the best day, giving only five hits.

There was only one base on balls in the Cambridge-Stoughton affair, that given by "Cider" Jerdee of Stoughton.

NATIONAL POLITICS UPSET BY ACTION OF N. Y. GOVERNOR

STATES' RIGHTS STAND MAY SWING SOUTH TO BANNER.

TAMMANY ACTIVE
Wet States in East Ready to Rally Behind Smith and
"Personal Liberty."

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
Copyright, 1923, by Janesville Daily
Gazette.

Washington.—Governor Al Smith of New York has completely upset the national political situation, not only with respect to the choice of presidential candidates for 1924, but the making of the two national party platforms.

Going back to the historic doctrine of states' rights, which the democratic party has held as dear for a century but which was temporarily obliterated by the necessities of the World War, the governor of New York has issued an appeal to the people of America to preserve the sovereignty of the states of the union, as guaranteed them by the constitution.

Is Fundamental Issue.
States' rights is a fundamental issue in the south, the stronghold of democracy. When tied up to the prohibition question it becomes a live issue in the north and east. Governor Smith did not embrace the extreme wet side of the controversy nor did he recede one step from the obligation of the citizenry of the nation to obey the laws of the federal government. But he did present a constructive program whereby each state can regulate the liquor question according to the wishes of its own people. Home rule, local regulation, states' rights—all these slogans will be heard from in the next 12 months as the advocates of a modification of the existing situation with respect to the Volstead law press for a change.

Influence on Party.
Whether Al Smith was the democratic nomination for the presidency on the platform of his memorandum, written as he signed the repeal of New York state's prohibition enforcement law, is for the moment an open question and is complicated by the merits of other candidates and other issues but the hold step taken by the governor of a state where the democratic party rolled up its biggest majority will have a definite influence on the making of the democratic platform. It would not be surprising if the Smith memorandum formed the basis of the democratic platform in the nation.

Naturally Al Smith is the man eastern democracy would want to see nominated on that kind of a platform, as his fame has spread to Massachusetts, New Jersey and the eastern seaboard, where enough electoral votes might be mustered to add to the votes of the solid south and a victory achieved without regard to the "dry" west.

"The south would stick on the doctrine of states' rights, because prohibition could still be enforced as rigidly there as it was before the eighteenth amendment was adopted. Indirectly, the influence of such a move would be felt in congress. Members from the south uphold the Volstead law because they are committed to the dry side in their own states, but if the democratic national platform revived the issue of states' rights a way was pointed out whereby the traffic in liquor could still be regulated by each state, the delegations from southern states would be deeply impressed and possibly swing to the ranks of the group wishing to amend the Volstead law.

Religion Considered.
Al Smith's own chances for the nomination are complicated by his religion. Traditionally the politicians have always maintained that a Catholic could not be nominated by either party because he would not have a chance of election. The "noisy" has never been tested out, but many similar conjectures have gone by the boards. One was that a southerner would never be nominated for the presidency after the civil war. It took many years but Woodrow Wilson, a native of Virginia, finally was nominated and elected, thus breaking that tradition. Another argument of the politicians was that a Catholic didn't have a chance to become governor in a populous state. But Al Smith has shattered that theory. And so have prominent Catholics in other states.

Support of Tammany.
When it gets down to brass tacks in the democratic convention, therefore, the likelihood is that Al Smith's stock will be weighed on an entirely different basis. It will be whether he can carry enough states to win, whether his stand on prohibition will be an asset or a liability, and whether man like William Gibbs McAdoo, James M. Cox, Senator Benton of Indiana or John W. Davis of New York can approach the electorate from another angle and win.

New York's politicians, especially Tammany, see only one thing—prohibition as the big issue—personal liberty and states' rights giving them a good talking point. Al Smith will have New York state's support in the democratic national convention. Probably Illinois and New Jersey will stand behind him, too, with aid from Massachusetts and other so-called "wet" states.

It will be an important nucleus to reckon with. New York hasn't had a successful candidate since the days of Grover Cleveland. The argument of Tammany will be that Al Smith can carry New York state, a potent argument with other delegations, as the democracy from the south and elsewhere wants to win. It means committee chairmanships in congress and success in local elections.

Harding 100 Per Cent.
Politics is full of big lies, of course, but when all is said and done, all prejudices and defects fade away when there is paramount issue. And there are many democrats high in the councils of the party who believe Al Smith has given democracy a chance to make a real issue of prohibition, particularly inasmuch as President Harding is 100 per cent dry and stands for centralization of power in the federal government—a natural cleavage of parties reminiscent of pre-war days.

CITY PLAYGROUNDS TO OPEN JUNE 25

Beaches Will Be Opened Earlier Due to Warm Weather.

Playgrounds will open this year earlier than before, probably about June 25, according to Mrs. D. W. Holmes, chairman of that committee of the board of education and for the past two years a most efficient worker in that capacity.

Supervision at the two beaches—Goose Island and Holapple's—will start earlier, she says, because of the warm weather, and the fact that as soon as children are out of school, the middle of the month, they will inhabit the beaches.

V. E. Klotz, supervisor of the work this summer, will go on duty June 15, arranging equipment of grounds and beaches, and will start active supervising work as soon as the grounds are open. Assistants are being chosen.

School Band to Play at Carnival

Stunts and amusements for old and young alike, are being prepared for the June carnival Thursday night, beginning at 7 o'clock, at Jefferson school under auspices of the Parent-Teachers' association. While the carnival, an outdoor affair, is being given primarily to raise money for the treasury of the association, effort is also being made to make it of wide community interest. The public is invited.

Practically all women of the association and the children of the school are taking part. Booths, where ice cream cones, home made candy and hot bats will be sold, are being erected. Other features which will doubtless attract are a fortune telling booth; Harold Lloyd moving picture; a pavement dance with the high school orchestra playing; a side show at which many of the world's greatest freaks will hold court; and a program of dances and songs with school children taking part. The movie is the only indoor attraction and this will be shown continuously from 7 p. m. on.

Fine Program by Dokeys, June 11, for Band Outfits

Entertainment at the high school auditorium a week from Monday, given by the Dokey sextet of Beloit, will be a musical treat that should appeal to all. For that reason, and because of the excellent services free, in order to raise money for the local high school bands to purchase uniforms, public support should be good. Band members are now selling tickets.

Those making up the troupe are four tenors—Charles Reynolds, A. B. Cravelling, A. H. Batterman and V. E. Stuntz; two basses, L. L. Brannen and C. E. Elcher; and W. J. Tucker, baritone. Mrs. George H. Elliott is accompanist, while those assisting the sextet at this entertainment will be the high school bands, playing opening and closing numbers; Miss Eliza Syce, contralto; Miss Mildred Dustrude, soprano; and Miss Hazel Croft, accompanist.

Four numbers will make up Part 2 of the program, the band numbers coming first. The four will be "Broadway," "Sextet from Lucia," "My Garden of Memories," from the musical comedy, "Springtime," and "The Sheik." Miss Dustrude will then follow with two numbers, "One Fine Day," from "Madame Butterfly," and "In Italy." The fourth part will be made up of a recitation "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," by James Whitcomb Riley, set to music, and given by L. L. Brannen. The sextet will give the fifth and sixth parts, which will include "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from "Samson and Delilah," "The Magic of Your Eyes," "Remember Now Thy Creator," unaccompanied, "Call Me Back, Pal O' Mine," "Honey Town," unaccompanied, "Wabash Blues," and "Goin' Home," the last from the large of the symphony by Dvorak, "From the New World."

Chicago & North Western System C. & N. W. Ry. C., St. P., M. & O. Ry.

Providing Equipment

When crops are good; business brisk, and everyone employed, statements are often made that there is a shortage of railroad cars and locomotives. A most natural question just now is, What action is the Chicago & North Western Railway System taking to meet the present situation? I will answer by concisely setting forth facts below to show just what has been done to provide cars and locomotives for the service of its patrons.

EQUIPMENT PURCHASED during the seven years 1916-1922 inclusive, consisted of 238 locomotives, 190 passenger cars, 14,352 freight cars, at an aggregate cost of $45,036,030

EQUIPMENT IN SERVICE on December 31, 1922, consisted of 2,434 locomotives, 2,439 passenger cars, and 18,773 freight cars.

NEW EQUIPMENT purchased for delivery in 1923, consists of 150 locomotives, 250 passenger cars, and 7,951 freight cars, at an aggregate cost of $24,000,000

COST OF REPAIRING EQUIPMENT during the past seven years aggregated $182,905,064

This expenditure of almost $10,000,000 per year for new equipment and $25,000,000 per year for upkeep emphasizes the earnest and continuous effort to meet the public requirements.

Purchases for the year 1923 are larger than usual. In 1922 there was moved 2,448,000 carloads of freight, of which 1,704,000 were loaded on its lines, an average of 31 carloads for each car—a real achievement. It required 448,871,813 car miles to deliver this at destination and required 223,020,050 miles of empty haul to move cars from points of unloading to points of loading.

At heat there will be times when the demand for freight cars will exceed the immediate supply, and at such times we must ask the forbearance of our patrons, who are assured that every possible effort will be made to meet their requirements. A reasonable shortage of equipment at the peak of traffic is not easily overcome, and is no occasion for alarm; and within bounds, indicates a healthy condition of business.

Everyone using freight cars who loads and unloads them promptly increases the available supply of cars and best secures his own interests and those of others. Experience shows that over one-half of the time taken for handling freight is used for loading and unloading, and if this be done promptly there is more than sufficient equipment to handle the traffic of the country.

To the extent of our financial ability and with faith in the future, we have made these expenditures for new cars and locomotives and for the repairing and maintaining of our equipment in service. Our faith in the American people, and our duty to our patrons compel this action. The splendid co-operation of our shippers in prompt loading and unloading of cars, coupled with the effective service of our employees will enable us to make full use of our increased facilities in our effort to move satisfactorily all traffic offered us.
